THE REFORM SCHOOL. Plants and Pots Sold for Small Prices. Government Pays for the Cultiva'ing-Growers Suffer From This Cut-Throat Policy and Protest.

For the past few days complaints have been coming in quite frequently to the office of the REPUBLICAN that the smaller florists in the city were suffering from a competition that had no legal or moral right to exist. The matter was placed in the hands of a reporter, with instructions to fully investigate and report.

Some of the more prominent houses did not care to say anything about the charges, but one was found at last where the proprictor talked freely of the evils resulting prietor talked freely of the evils resulting from pitting the free labor of the reform school against the efforts of the men who grew flowers for sale either on the markets or to the more extensive retail dealers.

Said he: "The whole thing is manifestly unfair. Competition is almost impossible for the reason that no man who has to raise his plants can afford to buy pots for the prices at which the reform school sells pots and plants together. Here, a few days ago, a florist in this city made a big apread on his stock, and his windows were continually darkened by the crowds that gazed on the beautiful display. Chrysauthemums formed no small part of the show; in fact, it was really an exhibition of chrysanthemums. People said: 'What a splendid display!' and, after feasting their eyes, walked on, never magining for a moment that the flowers had been raised by any one other than the man in whose windows they were exposed."

"Didn't he raise them?" interrupted the reporter.

"No, sir; they were bought from the rein whose windows they were exposed."

"Didn't he raise them?" interrupted the reporter.

"No, sir; they were bought from the reform school authorities, and, in that connection, let me teil you how such dealing works to the bona ilde growers' disadvantage. The florist who made the exhibit had been dickering for some time with a firm of growers, who do business with the trade, for a quantity of chrysauthemums with the result that he had agreed to purchase several bundred potted plants at the rate of $40 per hundred. Learning, however, that the reform school had a greenhouse full, he made overtures for the purchase of all they had, and secured for $40 the entire stock, consisting of 500 good plants in either six or eight-inch pots."

"Hed rock price, eb?"

"Well, I abould say it was. Why, the pots alone were worth from $30 to $35, Suppose they were worth from $30 to $35, Suppose they were worth only $30, and that's below the figure, it would only leave $10 to pay for the raising of the plants and for hauling them into the city. The plants and for hauling them into the city. The plants and pots were worth from $0 to 50 cents each. There seems to be no valid reason why the reform school authorities should not get as good a price for their products as private individuals do."

Several of the growers who do little beside flower raising for the more pretentious city delears were interviewed and the second of the growers who do little beside flower raising for the more pretentious city delears were interviewed and the second of the growers who do little beside flower raising for the more pretentious city delears were interviewed and the second of the growers who do little beside flower raising for the more pretentious city delears were interviewed and the second of the sec not get as good a price for their products as private individuals do."

Several of the growers who do little beside flower raising for the more pretentious city dealers were interviewed, and they were unanimous in their condemnation of the manner in which the reform school authorities disposed of their plants.

"We can't compete with them," said one, "they have an appropriation that insures them all they need, and they should not be allowed to sell anything. It was never the intention of Congress to establish a business that should undercut private citizens who were trying to make an honest living. They say that $5,500 has been spent on a new hothouse at the school during the past year. Well, if they want to train boys to be florists that's well enough, but they have no right to grind us down to starvation rates to gratify a small personal ambition. Congress would take care of that school if there was never a dollar received for anything they raise on the grounds. If they must sell, then let them act squarely and sell their goods at the regular market prices."

"I have suffered," said another, "from for anything they raise on the grounds. If they must sell, then let them act squarely and sell their goods at the regular market prices."

"I have suffered." said another, "from the cutthroat policy which has been pursued by the folks at the reform school. I had a stand near them in the Center market some time ago, but it was impossible for me to keep it going. Plants that I could not afford to sell for less than 30 cents they disposed of at the rate of two for 15 cents. They didn't care what the flowers sold for; all their object seemed to be to get rid of them. I tried a week ago to sell some plants to several of the florists in the city, but failed, owing to the peculiar methods of the reform school folks. They had left a number of plants at various stores with instructions to sell them for anything that could be got. One of those storekeepers told me that it was all the same whether he got 5 cents or $1 each; the order was to sell. We cannot compete with such business as that."

"Of course, nobody blames the florists," said another man with a grievance, "for buying as cheaply as possible from any source, but it is manifestly wrong to cut down pifices to such a point that honest citizens who pay for the support of the reform school are compelled to cry out for relief It would seem to me to be in order for the reform school are compelled to cry out for relief It would seem to me to be in order for the reform school are compelled to cry out for self it and the compliments?"

The institution is a good one said its objects are most praiseworthy, but I think the error in this respect is a serious one."

"What do you think," he continued, "of a dealer who will purchase a large number of reform school at should be given; but, then, you could hardly expect a man to humble his professional pride to such an extent as to acknowledge that he is indebted to the boys for his great, but not expensive exhibition, for the potted plants cost him, I believe, but S cents each. I trust, however, that Congress will do something t

A VALIANT FIGHT. How Rochester, N. V. Wrestled With the Telephone and Won.

Rochester, N. Y., is the only city in the United States which does not generally use the Bell telephone! the 20th of November, 1896, about seven hundred subscribers hung up their phones, and they have been hung up since!

It is the most noteworthy fight with a corporation ever known.

The cause of it was the attempt of the local Bell company (whose officers all lived in another city) to exact a rate per messace from the subscribers, instead of a "flat rate." The people resisted it, the courts sustained the position that the license was revokable at will, the common council revoked it. The company ignored this action, and, without permission, erected poles in the streets and atrung additional wires; but the courts held that this was unlawful. According to the message rate a house like H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of Warner's safe cure, who were among the heaviest patrons, would have to pay something like $1,000 a year for the same telephone service as before.

For a city of 125,000 people Rochester has made a good many sensations. Sam Patch and his deadly leap, the Fox sisters' spiritual rappings, Seward's "Irrepressible Conflict" speech, Susan B. Anthony's attempt to vote, the cometary discoveries of Dr. Swift, of Warner observatory, have each made the city the "talk of the world," she leads in the manufacture of proprietary medicine, and her immense nursery, shoe, and clothing interests puts her in the front rank.

and clothing interests puts her in the front rank.

The origin of one of her greatest industries is interesting: About ten years ago one of her foremost citizens was stricken down in the very height of a successful business career with what his doctors said was an incurable disease. They gave him up to die. He then used what is now known as Warner's safe cure, and since then has developed as the world's great champion of the people against the assumed monopoly of physicians over the treatment of disease!

His fight, too, has been a determined one, and as successful as determined. Today he is the head of the largest proprietary medicine business in the world, having branch houses and laboratories in London, England; Toronto, Canada; Melbourne, Victoria; Sydney, New South Wales; Frankfort, Germany; Prague, Austria; Rangeon, Burmah.

Many foreign governments will not permit the manufacture and sale of proprietary medicines of any name or nature until

This confirms the magnificent reputation to be leading obvious, ministers.

This confirms the magnificent reputation given it by leading physicians, ministers, senstors, congressmen, lawyers, and ladies of the world. "Its secret of success," says the leading physician at Clifton Springs, N. Y., Sanitarium, "is the simplicity of its compounds and the proportions in which they are compounded."

"How do the people get on?"

The universal verdict is: "We don't miss the 'phone,' except to our profit!"

There has been practically no break in the united opposition begun last November.

The American is getting to be quite as tenacious of his personal rights as against convipiring monopolies as is the typical Englishman, and this Rochester telephone episode is a noteworthy illustration of the fact, valuable as indicating probable changes in the magnetic conditions of steel vessels, upon the accuracy of which the safety of a vessel depends. The report states no necessity exists for supplying separate searchilght electric light plants to ships of war, as the incandescent plants now in use will serve both purposes. Referring to the naval war college, the report states that Rear Admiral Luce intends to supplement theoretical instruction by practical exercises ashore and affoat in Narragansett bay. The college opened its third term Sept. 5, with a class of twenty-three officers.

THE NAVAL WAR COLLEGE. Theoretical Instruction Supplemented

The branch hydrographic offices have undoubtedly supplied very valuable information to seamen, who have generally cooperated. Owing to the limited accommodations afforded the branch hydrographic office at New York the report suggests the use of the barge office, which at present is not in use. An appropriation is asked for the principal office in this city, the present quarters being inadequate. The report calls attention to the advantages derived from having nautical instruments tested at the navy observatory. Several sextants which had been reported as being true were found to be unserviceable, and serious errors would have occurred through their use. Authority is asked so that instruments found to be unserviceable may be destroyed. Attention is also called to the numerous wrecks abandoned on the Atlantic and guif coasts, and suggestion the numerous wrecks abandoned on the Atlantic and gulf coasts, and suggestion made that a small vessel be stationed at New York or Norfolk for the purpose of destroying them. A statement showing the need of a naval reserve concludes the report.

LOOKED THEIR PRETTIEST.

The Maidens at the Universalist Church Fair,

The young ladies and the middle aged ladius (if there were any, for the reporter's recollec-tion is that all were young) looked their tion is that all were young) looked their pretitiest at all comers, whether they were wealthy or poverty-stricken. The sales were more than satisfactory, and the management was very much inclined to shake hands with itself. Dancing was indulged in by a large number, the temptation to do so being far greater than on the preceding evening, as a portion of Prof. Hinton's orchestra had been engaged to succeed the discordant combination which afflicted the fair on that occasion.

The increased attendance was doubtless largely due to the fact that the smiling face of Mr. C. M. Merrill ornaments the position of ticket-taker.

"THE LIVING HEAD"

Resigns Hrs Position Because He Is Both Poor and Hungry.

Many credulous mortals have doubtless allowed curiosity to overcome judgment to such an extent that they paid 10 cents for the privilege of entering an alleged museum of curiosities now open to the museum of curlosities now open to the ignorant public on Seventh street, between F and G streets northwest. Among other wonderful attractions, pictures of which are plastered over the store windows, is a real, living mermaid, and a living, talking human head which is, of course, disconnected from any body. The exhibition has been more or less of a success, but whether the money received has been much or little one of the employee, whose specialty was the 'talking-head' act, has not so far seen any of it. A demand for a small amount of cash being unbeeded, and an effort to secure three meals a day instead of two being also unsuccessful. Joseph Costick, of Constantinople, refused to be a "talking-head" any longer unless the wages were visible and the board more extensive and satisfactory. Joseph is in full possession of the secrets of the mermaid's make-up, which, in this particular instance, consists of an active young Philadelphian named Wilson, an alleged mermaid's hide, and a broomstick, with which the aforesaid Wilson wiggles the "genuine, living" mermaid's caudal appendage for the sum of $5 per week and two meals per day.

If the Turk can only get a partner who will provide the capital and do the mermaid business he will start an opposition show where all such freaks of nature may be seen for 50 per cent. less than the present show is exacting from its dupes. In the meantime Joseph will amuse himself by telling everybody he meets how any one, without regard to color, sex, race, or previous condition of servitude, can become a "talking head," while for a trivial sum he will give such information as will enable the poorest and most ignorant family to have their own pet mermaid.

The Report of the Church Extension Society.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 17 .- The aunual meeting of the Methodist Episcopal Church Extension Society was begun today at Wesley Hall. Bishop Bowman, of St. Louis, presided. There were present Bishops Stephen M. Merrill, Charles H. Fowler, John M. Walden, John F. Hurst, and Edward G. Andrews. The session was devoted almost entirely to the reception of reports and the appointment of committees. The report of the president, Thomas T. Tasker, shows that the past year has been the most successful in the history of the church for church extension. The year began on Nov. 1, 1886, with a balance of $45,726.31, and the receipts have been $263,027.14, giving a total of $300,-325.45, an increase of $37,226.13. Of the $158,025.10 received on general fund, the collections from churches were $119,976.41, an increase over the preceding year of $20,530.50. The net receipts on general fund from all sources exceed those of the previous year by $13,333.33, and exceeded those of any previous year by $7,335.30.

The total disbursements were $19,0024.74, as follows: On general fund, $157,574.74; on loan fund, $111,650. This is an increase of $23,484.15. There has been a steady gain in the number of churches sided, which hast year amounted to 523 against 511 for the previous year. The grand total sided in four years has been 2,012. The report further states: The frontier church plan still finds response from generous givers. The total number placed now reaches 358, and eleven more are waiting the fulfillment of special conditions made by donors as to name and place. The total donations from this fund thus far have been $91,750, which were accompanied by loans amounting to $75,700. The result has been a procurement of property of an aggregate value of $2,000 to each church instead of the minimum $1,250 required by the plan. day at Wesley Hall. Bishop Bowman, of St. Louis, presided. There were present

The new last train leaving New York last Priday night arrived in San Francisco Wed-pesday evening on time, reducing previous schedule time between the two oceans by one day.

At the meeting of the rate committee of the Southern Passenger Association yesterday no change in Florida rates was made. It is said that the Central railroad of Georgia will put fest to its on the old Cumberlaud route, and that very cheap excursion rates will be made, independent of the Savannah, Florida and Western railroad.

A STRONG MARKET. Opening Advances Wiped Out in Later

Transactions. New Your, Nov 17 -The stock market was sgain strong this morning, but yielded later in the day and the early advance was completely wiped out. There was a disposition to sell on the part of the foreigners at the opening, but the list received good support from the bulls, and buying from domestic sources turned the tide once more and higher prices than had been before and higher prices than had been before attained were reached. There was no news of importance to affect values, though there were reports of rate cutting in the northwest during the morning hours, while later in the day advices of an entirely different nature were received.

The opening was heavy to weak generally at from ½ to ½ per cent, below the closing figures of yesterday, but Missouri Pleific was an exception, with an advance of ½. Business was extremely active, and under the lead of Wheeling and Lake Eric the entire list moved up after a slight further decline. There was little advance after the first hour, though the best figures were remarkably well held until nearly 1 p. m., when the entire market, with the exception of a few stocks, moved off slowly, with Hocking Coal in the lead. There was some little improvement in the last hour, but it was again lost before the close, which was heavy to weak at nearly the opening figures.

HISTORIC GIRLS. Stories of girls who influenced the nistory of their time E. S. Brooks. New York, G. P. Pan Suns, publishers. For sale by Robt. 405 Pennsylvania avenue. Price, $2. Contains sketches of the lives of twelve

"Historic Girls," commencing with "Ze-nobis, of Palmyra," who lived A. D. 250, nobis, of Palmyra," who lived A. D. 250, and concludes with "Ma-ta-oks, of Powba-tan," "The Girl of the Vrigiois Forests."

The stories as told show that some of the "girls" were willful as well as courageous, and mischevious as well as render hearted.

Of Pocaboutas the author says: "Her story is both a pleasant and a sad one. It needs none of the additional romance that has been thrown about it to render it more interesting. Brighter perhaps than most of the girls of her tribs, she recognized and desired to avail herself of the refinements of civilization, and so gave up her barbaric surroundings, east in her lot with the white race, and sought to make peace and friendship between neighbors take the place of quarrel and of war."

PETER RUDSTONE. The boy who was bazed. By J. T. TROWRRIDGE, BOSION: Lee & Shep-ard, publishers. For sate by Wm. Bal-lantyne & Son. Price, $1.25.

The latest of Mr. Trowbridge's juvenile stories, which have become so attractive and interesting to the boys and girls. It will prove to be profitable reading.

CA IRA; OR, DANTON IN THE FRENCH REVOLUTION, A Study. By LAURENCE GEONLYND, A. M. Boston: Lee & Shepard, publishers, For sale by Wm. Ballantyne & Bon. Price, $1.25.

In the introduction the author says: "All dstorians, in the English language at least have presented the revolution as a pano have presented the revolution as a pano-rama of kaleidoscopic pictures, and thereby make it simply a perplexing and puzzling subject. Such pictures are altogether un-profitable to us in our day, since they leave the crisis an unexplained phenomenon. Even in that form no portion of history has had such a fascination for all classes of readers as the period of French history from 1789 to 1794; but how much grander would the inferest be if we could once understand the interest be if we could once understand it. PERSEVERANCE ISLAND: OR. THE ROB-INSON CRUSOE OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY. By DOUGLAS FRAZER. Boston: Lee & Shepard, publishers. From Wm. Ballantyne & Son. Price, $1.59. No one that has ever read "Robinson Crusoe" but that will be eager to read this book. In most all works of the "Robinson Crusce" type the wreck is near at hand to come to shore just as it is needed. Not so with the unfortunate one in this book, "who was able by the use of his brains, the skill of his hands, and a practical knowledge of the arts and sciences to far surpass the achievements of all his predecessors."

CHATTERBOX FOR 1887. Buston Estes & Lauriat, publishers. For sale by J. D. Free, jr. Price, $1,25.

No word of commendation is needed to attract the attention of the little folks to this delightful book. The number before us is filled, as usual, with a great variety of instructive and interesting matter. For this book the demand is very large and constantly increasing. The publishers presses run from January to January on its bright pages, turning off its great number of original stories, sketches, and poems, illustrated by the best-known English artists with over 200 full-page original designs, especially made for this work. this delightful book. Saved from the Grave.

When a man has been snatched, as it were,

When a man has been snatched, as it were, from the very laws of death, and given a new lease of hishly life by means of a simple remedy, it is natural for him to be enthusiastic in his praise of the means which delivered him from deadly peril. Mr. B. H. Byrd, who is the postmaster at Lady Lake, Samter county, Fla., as well as a leading merchant of that place, under date of May 4, 1887, writee:

GENTLEMEN Allow me to congratulate and return thanks for the wonderful success your S. S. S. has proved in my case. You remember about a year ago 1 wrole you in reference to my case. I was treated by three skilled physicians, but with no relief. I suffered a great deal of measiness, besides a great deal of pain. I must say that the contents of one dozen bottles of S. S. Las almost removed a cancer from my face, which no doubt would have soon hurried me to my grave.

I shall always keep a good supply in my store, and trige the sale of the same, I do think it is wonderful and has no equal. I am, yours truly.
